To Morton County State's Attorney and the State of North Dakota:

The National Federation of Community Broadcasters, a national association of noncommercial radio stations, asks you to honor the First Amendment by dropping all charges against Jenni Monet.

Jenni is a credentialed journalist, who has reported on the Dakota Access Pipeline for independent news services such as the Center for Investigative Reporting, Indian Country Media Network, PBS News Hour and High Country News. As an enrolled member of the Laguna Pueblo, Jenni brings a news perspective that is particularly relevant to other Native Americans. Her podcasts, Still Here, are trusted as a form of on-site, first-hand reporting.

Jenni Monet is a distinguished reporter, engaged in covering events of national importance, at the request of many independent news outlets. NFCB urges you to drop all charges of criminal trespass or rioting.

Sincerely,

Sonya Green
President of the Board
National Association of Community Broadcasters
